Two Planes Damaged

at Archerfield

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Two aeroplanes were damaged at Archerfield yesterday. A Moth, owned by the Matheson Aviation Training School and piloted by Allan Itinmsay, crashed into one of the posts supporting a direction-finding mast outside the wireless station. The lower port wing was smashed.

A Stinson, owned by Airlines of Australia, was damaged for the second successive day. On Friday, when the brake was released, it ran backwards into a Douglas that was preparing to leave for Sydney. The wing fabric was torn, but the Douglas was not damaged.

Until yesterday repairs to the wing were completed. When the fabric, to which a chemical had been applied, was being dried it burst into flames. They were extinguished before serious damage was done.
